OVERVIEW

The memory module for the PowerBook G3 is easy to install, but the steps in this guide should be followed exactly. Be sure to read this entire instruction guide before you begin.

TO INSTALL A NEW MEMORY MODULE IN YOUR POWERBOOK G3

1. Turn off the computer, unplug all the cables, and the power supply. If you have the Lombard (Bronze Keyboard), use the release tabs between the ESC and F1 key to release the keyboard. Push down and back on the tabs to release keyboard. Go to Step 4.
2. Using the eject levers located on the front of the computer, remove both devices in the expansion bays.
3. Reach in the expansion bays and slide back the pair of spring loaded tabs which releases the keyboard for removal.
4. Remove the two Phillips head screws and remove the heat sink.
5. Locate the "Processor Daughtercard." This has one of the RAM upgrade connectors on top of it. The other RAM upgrade connector is filled and is located on the bottom side of the "Processor Daughtercard." The bottom connector will only hold RAM of 256Mb or less.
6. Align the notches of the new memory module and the expansion connector. The module inserts at a 45 degree angle and then pushes down until the side holder clicks into place.
7. Replace the heat sink and the keyboard. Replace the devices into the expansion bay and reattach any cables, including the power supply.
8. Your computer will automatically configure your new memory.
9. Power up the computer and verify the new memory. Click on the "Apple" icon and select the "About this Macintosh." Installation is now complete.
